THE DOPE ON THE ROPE

Issue 1, October 11, 1947

Progressive Field (Cleveland Naps):

Progressive Field (formerly known as Jacobs Field) is a fantastic facility created explicitly for baseball. It has become one of the well known landmarks of the city. With 122 suites and a seating capacity of 43,545, it is a great home for all of Cleveland's baseball heroes.

AVG Overall	.984
AVG LHB	.983
AVG RHB	.984
Doubles	1.040
Triples	1.042
Home Runs Overall	.991
Home Runs LHB	1.004
Home Runs RHB	.984

The ballpark opened as Jacobs Field in 1994 to replace Cleveland Stadium which the Guardians, then known as the Cleveland Indians had shared with the Cleveland Browns of the NFL. Since 2008 the facility has been named for Progressive Corporation, which purchased naming right for $58 million over 16 years. The previous name came from team owners Richard and David Jacobs, who had acquired naming right when the facility opened. The ballpark is still often referred to as 'The Jake' based on its original name.

See a picture of the stadium along with the OOTP layout and the ballpark factors for FRBA's Cleveland Naps.

STAT OF THE MONTH:

For our opening Stat of the Month we have New York Yankees leftfielder Duffy Lewis who is currently the only FRBA player to have won two triple crowns.

Duffy accomplished this during the 1944 and 1947 Atlantic League Seasons

COMMISSIONERS CORNER:

Hey Gang, just wanted to let every new GM of Frozen Rope Baseball Association know that I look forward to competing and having fun through the upcoming years. I believe we have a great group and that enough time has been put in to make this a fantastic OOTP Online League experience. Catch'ya on the diamond.
